As the crisis of capitalism unfolds, the need for alternatives is felt ever more intensely. The struggle between radical movements and the forces of reaction will be merciless. A crucial battlefield, where the outcome of the crisis will in part be decided, is that of theory. Over the last twenty-five years, radical intellectuals across the world have produced important and innovative ideas.

The endeavour to transform the world without falling into the catastrophic traps of the past has been a common element uniting these new approaches. This book – aimed at both the general reader and the specialist – offers the first global cartography of the expanding intellectual field of critical contemporary thought. More than thirty authors and intellectual currents of every continent are presented in a clear and succinct manner. A history of critical thought in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries is also provided, helping situate current thinkers in a broader historical and sociological perspective.

Justin Oliver:

As a student exactly feel bored in order to reading. If their teacher asked them to go to the library as well as to make summary for some e-book, they are complained. Just minor students that has reading's heart and soul or real their passion. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to the library. They go to presently there but nothing reading very seriously. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring in addition to can't see colorful photographs on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important in your case. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever you want. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore this The Left Hemisphere: Mapping Critical Theory can make you really feel more interested to read.
