Nothing to Tell: Extraordinary Stories of Montana Ranch Women Donna Gray

Sitting at the kitchen tables of twelve women in their eighties who were born in or immigrated to Montana in the late nineteenth or early twentieth century, between 1982 and 1988 oral historian Donna Gray conducted interviews that reveal a rich heritage. In retelling their life stories, Gray steps aside and allows these women with supposedly “nothing to tell” to speak for themselves. Pride, nostalgia, and triumph fill a dozen hearts as they realize how remarkable their lives have been and wonder how they did it all.

Some of these women grew up in Montana in one-bedroom houses; others traveled in covered wagons before finding a home and falling in love with Montana. These raw accounts bring to life the childhood memories and adulthood experiences of ranch wives who were not afraid to milk a cow or bake in a wooden stove. From raising poultry to raising a family, these women knew the meaning of hard work. Several faced the hardships of family illness, poverty, and early widowhood. Through it all, they were known for their good sense of humor and strong sense of self.

Kimberly Silvestre:

As a student exactly feel bored to be able to reading. If their teacher questioned them to go to the library in order to make summary for some publication, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their passion. They just do what the educator want, like asked to go to the library. They go to generally there but nothing reading critically. Any students feel that examining is not important, boring along with can't see colorful photographs on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this age, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Nothing to Tell: Extraordinary Stories of Montana Ranch Women can make you really feel more interested to read.
